ATLANTA:

Saturday Morning, July 18, 1874.

BREVITIES.

—Gold closed in New York at 97½.

Cotton closed in New York at 17½.

—I am very devoted to literature," she remarked as she picked up the latest number of the New York Ledger.

—King Koife, of Ashante fame, is about to send one of his sons to England to be educated under the care of the government.

—The last of the broad gauge railroads in England has disappeared, the Great Western Company having completed the alteration of its road.

—A Louisiana man puts a two-ounce can of nitro-glycerine inside of chicken, tosses the chicken to an alligator, and that alligator does not trouble the bayou more.

—A patent automatic ten-pen alley which dispenses with sets, sets up its own pins and returns the balls to the players, is one of the latest attractions at Long Branch.

—It is estimated that it costs the people of the United States $5,000,000 yearly to keep their teeth in repair. All the consequence of drinking ice water, which, say the dentists, cracks the enamel.

—The poet of the New York Academ, in a poem addressed to the comet, asks: "Is there any Melodion Sorrow" in the orbits.

Do the constellations tremble with a Tilton "trempt-tossed?"

—Necklaces of small gold horse shoes have been introduced, and being somewhat novel, will be fashionable for a little while. It is said that Nilson originated the fashion, but we do not know that is any recommendation.

—Three deaths have resulted in Washington, indirectly from the suspension of the Friends' Bank in that city, in each case the victim being women who allowed themselves to go into a state of imbecility and collapse at the loss of their savings.

—For the first time in sixty years there was a failure to hoist the flag over the capitol at Washington this Fourth of July. There was a fitness in the blunder. The edifice which has just been passed an infamous law to restrain freedom of speech should not be surrounded by the flag of freedom.

—A bill before the British House of Commons takes the workmen injured in the course of their labor into account damages of their employers, and that the family of a workman killed at his employment may recover a sum not greater than one year's wages of the person killed. The bill excepts all employers who do not employ over fifty men.

—From the latest official return it appears that the cotton culture in the South is increasing rapidly. The average for the past year was 1,550,383 acres, as against 1,546,666 in the preceding year. Indigo shows a decrease of the acre under plant, the figures being 333,585 acres in 1872, and but 258,198 acres in 1873.

—Vagrant Philadelphia dogs are smothered to death in a room built of bricks and mortar, with good cement, elevation being four feet above the ground, and two footings, inclusive of the wall, and a bonous oxide gas is used. It is generated by a charcoal stove, and it follows forces it into the air-tight compartment. Seven men are occupied in filling the room with gas, and two or a quarter a pound to destroy life. Forty large or eighty small dogs are killed at a time.

—A New York letter to the St. Louis Republican says: "Speaking of lighter reminds me that, some time during the last century a bridge was projected between this city and Brooklyn. It is progressing rapidly. Every alternate three months it is to be built, or the other of the piers, extra piers are to be announced the fact, and a committee is appointed by the Common Council to go to the river and see if true; then there is a committee for the next two months between the Masters of the two cities as to who shall lay it. They expect to have the bridge completed when the comet comes around again."

—At the Washington Lee University, Lexington, Virginia, a student is detailed to watch beside the tomb of Gen. Lee. Every morning on the students is posted at the tomb in the memorial room of the chapel, but under the supervision of Mr. Corby, a "watcher," and his duty is to stand there during the day and receive visitors, showing them the proper courtesy and attention. As there are nearly three hundred and fifty students, no one is on duty more than once a year. Thus the entire student body, though a single representative in the University, are watching at the tomb of Lee, and their minds and hearts benefited by thoughts of the noble dead.

—SUPREME COURT DECISIONS of the last term are not ready. Lawyers should send in their orders for the pamphlet. Many of the Decisions are of exceeding importance. The pamphlet is sent postpaid for $1.00.

—Hon. J. H. Stoss, the Alabama Congressman, who shot George Long, at Tuscaloosa, for a series of cowardly and dastardly traducements of his daughter, has been released on a bond of $250. Long is getting well.

—The walls of Wilmington's cotton factory are fast going up; and now the property-holders of Memphis are taking steps to put up a $125,000 mill. A deterioration in property values has been going on in the latter city, rents have fallen and a large number of houses are empty; and to remedy this discouraging state of things, the capitalists and business men of Memphis have turned their attention towards the development of manufacturing enterprises.

—TO-MORROW we shall publish in THE CONSTITUTION a lengthy letter, (some three columns) of Mr. H. L. Kimball to the AUGUSTA CHRONICLE, replying to the charges made against him and in defense and explanation of his connection with the railroads and bonds of Georgia. This is a communication which has long been looked for, and will therefore attract wide attention and perusal.

The Indiana Democrat.

Indianapolis contained on Wednesday the largest political convention ever held in Indiana. And the great body, composed of nearly two thousand delegates, was as fine in appearance, and harmonious, as it was numerous. Every man was brimful of enthusiasm and hopefulness, as it was numerous. The annual examinations of the senior class were quite satisfactory, and the general management of the institution met the approval of the Board, who have recommended that an appropriation be made for the purchase of additional apparatus for the use of the students.

These statements will no doubt be highly gratifying to the numerous friends of this venerable institution.

ALREADY an unusual number of visitors have gone to Oxford to attend the approaching commencement, and this morning a large party is to leave from this point, including several of the most beautiful and accomplished of the recent graduates at Wesleyan Female College. Judge James Jackson and Rev. John W. Burke, of Macon, and Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, of this city, are among the visitors. Altogether, the occasion promises to be the most brilliant and successful that has occurred in Oxford for years past. The commencement sermon will be preached to-morrow by Bishop Marvin, a preacher of rare power and eloquence.

DEPARTMENT NEWS.

MILITARY MATTERS.

The following items were gleaned from yesterday's business in the Executive office:

RESIGNATIONS.

Captain Thomas Hardeman and second Lieutenant George B. Turpin, of the Floyd Rifles, at Macon.

All the officers of the Macon Guards, A. G. Gibson, Captain, J. H. Field, first Lieutenant, I. P. Askew, second Lieutenant; and E. P. Taylor, third Lieutenant.

COMMISSIONED.

Captain J. H. Estill, (of the Savannah Morning News,) of the Johnston Light Infantry, and S. S. Tracy, Esq., are promoted to the rank of captain.

Mr. H. Pittard, Captain; Brantly Johnson, first Lieutenant; C. S. Fennan, and S. S. Martin, second Lieutenants of the Oglethorpe Guard, Bataillon at Winterville.

A. B. Austin, Captain; P. Lee, second Lieutenant; and J. M. Thomas, second Lieutenant of the Glynn County Militia Guards.

REACHER OPPOSED TO COMPROMISE.

The Argus says Mr. Tilton is in a tight place, and he realizes it. Mr. Beecher would not permit any to broach the subject of his removal, but the press will always be set by confidants.

Securing every citizen of the country the equal protection of the laws, without violating the principles of local self-government, is interfering with the social customs of the people.

Opposition to high fees and salaries, either in the State of Indiana or the United States. And we demand a reduction of salaries, State and national, and in the State such an adjustment and revision of fees and salaries as will relieve the people from higher State and local taxation.

The financial planks in the platform favor a redemption of 5-20 bonds in greenbacks, according to the law under which they were issued, and also a repeal of the National banking law, and the substitution of greenbacks for the Gold Standard.

The resolution is directed against a mixture of black and white races in the public schools or other educational institutions.

The seventh resolution pronounces the civil rights bill an atrocious measure, and appeals to the people of the State to decide whether they will or will not be coerced to the absolute social as well as political equality of the negro race with themselves.

The resolutions relate chiefly to matters of local interest, but to the end they are full of sound Democratic doctrine.

The ticket placed in nomination is composed entirely of Straight Democrats, and every name has thus far given the utmost satisfaction. There is not a lispering doubt in Indiana as to the result in October.

The election of the whole ticket is already assured, and the only question now relates to the extent of the majority it will receive.

In not dallying or bargaining with perverse factions, the Democracy of Indiana set an example that should be followed. They put example in the name of freedom to stand.

—A. T. McIntyre, A. H. Hansell, J. R. Alexander and R. G. Mitchell, all of Thomas county. The Seventh is still, however, the banner district, owing to some recent declensions in the Second. Col. Styles declares that nothing less than spontaneous fire for a rate paper will induce him to leave a first-rate paper and an excellent garden for a seat in Congress. The multiplicity of candidates puts spontaneously out of the question, and the Colonel must be considered out of the field. There is a bitter contest for the Radical nomination in this district, between Dick Whiteley, and Clark who has a defective constitution. Both are industriously courting the favor of the negroes, and we trust the Democracy will select a man who can whet either or both of these worthies unmercifully.

—The Second District is not backward in this flood-time of Congressional aspirations. The Thomasville Enterprise brings out the following list of those who are "pressed by their friends" to accept a nomination: Herbert Fielder, of Cuthbert; W. E. Smith, of Albany; Richard E. Kenyon, of Clav.; Wm. O. Fleming, of Bainbridge; P. B. Whittle, of Valdosta; James H. Hunter, of Brooks; and A. T. McIntyre, A. H. Hansell, J. R. Alexander and R. G. Mitchell, all of Thomas county. It weighed three ounces, and the price of gold was afterwards known as the Nacoochee mines. Other discoveries soon followed, and then came the great gold excitement.

evening last, arrived here safely at 2:30 A. M. Monday, making the whole distance traveled by us—about 700 miles—in thirty hours, by the Kenesaw Route.

Our trip was a most delightful pleasant one. The roads which were falling nearly all day Saturday, were very general, laying the dust and cooling off the atmosphere, thus adding greatly to our comfort.

The rail bed of the Kenesaw route runs through one of the finest sections of country on the continent. The valley of the Sweetwater and its tributaries are the most beautiful, the fertility of soil and grandeur of scenery. Much of the road bed is ballasted, and all the rails are connected with the steel joints glued on them with a paste which makes it really tempting to the traveler to come by this route.

Yet, while this is true, there are some, which I might call correspondents of the "old" and "new" routes, which are perfectly disagreeable to travel.

For instance, the route which I am now advertising, I having paid my choice of routes, and that is, the frequent changes of cars to be made by those who do not travel in the same car, and the many changes of cars, which are made by those who travel in the same car.

He ought at least to have one first-class
coach run through from Atlanta to Lynchburg.

Surely the indefatigable

Wren can remedy this very annoying evil if he will, but he is always equal to any emergency, and I hope he will.

Your correspondent "Halifax," in your issue of the 10th instant, makes the following allusion to me: "It is said that he is the most popular man in the city of Atlanta." In this section of Virginia, Rain is the name of a river, and the weather is much more uniform than in the South, where the seasons are more distinct, and the weather is more variable.

It is a great pleasure to me to know that I am the most popular man in the city of Atlanta.

Respectfully yours,

LADY
BY JAMES LAVALLIN.
A rosy budling, born of the sun,
In the West, ere its golden course is run,
Sailing the skies in the evening light,
Gathering gossamer in its onward flight.
In the darkening night
ound it tost;
Such is life.

A flower budling in merry Spring,
Nursed fresh in an angel's wing,
Bloomed bright in the warm sun's rays,
Till it drooped in the cheerless Autumn days,
And is swept
From its brother's gaze,
Sooty sweep'd
Such is life.

A streamlet leaving the mountain's feet,
Enriching bright meadows and fields of wheat,
Kissing the drowsy bending low
To its brook, it's gone in the flow
Of the sea.
Like a moment ago
To eternity;
Such is life.
